U. S. Proposes 4-Power Control Of Japan For 25-Year Period

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The United States has proposed to Russia, China and Britain the creation of a four-power control commission for Japan to take over supervision of Japanese affairs as part of a 25-year disarmament system.

The 25-year treaty similar to Secretary of State Byrnes' proposal for the long-range control of Germany, actually would become operative when present Japanese occupation ends, but indications are that if such a treaty is made the large scale occupation might be ended more quickly than otherwise.

The text of the proposed treaty was made public by the State department today. The proposals for Germany previously had been made public by Byrnes in Paris.

Both calls for the same sort of long-range four-power controls, but there is a considerable difference between them in comparison with the way Germany and Japan are controlled at present.

U. S. Monopoly Now
Under the powers of General Douglas MacArthur as supreme commander of occupation forces in Japan, the United States at present has a virtually complete monopoly on the direction of Japanese affairs. The proposed treaty would, in effect, end this situation when the present occupation phase ends.

In Germany, on the other hand, the four powers have shared control jointly from the first.

The avowed purpose of the treaty is to insure that, following the total disarmament and demilitarization of Japan by occupation forces, the country shall be kept in a state of disarmament and demilitarization "as long as the peace and security of the world may require."

To accomplish this, the following principal steps are set forth:

1. Japan's military organization shall remain completely disarmed, demobilized and disbanded and Japan shall be deprived of all sorts of arms and explosives, including atomic energy materials. The Japanese shall also be deprived of all sorts of bases and factories for producing arms and shall be allowed only civil police having small arms, and such explosives as are necessary for industrial uses.

Inspection System
2. To enforce these objectives, the four powers would operate through the control commission, an inspection system which would keep constant check on Japanese disarmament and demilitarization.

3. The Japanese themselves would have to accept this method of keeping themselves disarmed.

4. In case of any violation by the Japanese, the four powers would move in "by common agreement" with the necessary forces to put the Japanese in their place again.

5. The treaty would come into force when it has been ratified by each of the four governments and could be renewed after 25 years for an additional 25-year period. Any changes to be made by the Japanese would have to be made in the reconstruction of their life on a democratic and peaceful basis.

It's So! Summer Arrives Officially Tonight

CHICAGO, June 21.—Summer will arrive officially tonight, but only on the calendar.

The U. S. Weather bureau said it was "not summery" in the North Central states and the Midwest but "near summertime weather" blessed the area from the northern Rockies south into Arizona, the South Atlantic and Middle Gulf States.

Cool weather in the Great Lakes region will continue tonight and tomorrow forenoon.

Held After Telling Police Wild Yarn

Cletus Patterson of Salem is in jail today on an open charge after placing a series of calls to police and the sheriff's office telling them: "I just killed two girls."

Patterson, who obligingly gave police his name when they requested it on the phone, is being held on suspicion charges today, pending definite charges by local police.

Thursday night police received three calls from the man, each time he said he had "just killed two girls." He told the police where he had left the corpses.

Investigation showed that it was a good story but no bodies were to be found.

Police then proceeded to Patterson's home and arrested him.

The sheriff, in the meantime having received a similar call, rushed to Salem to investigate, but found both "dead" women in the best of health.

A check with city police solved the sheriff's worries.

Strike Closes General Tire Plant at Akron: 2,400 Idle

AKRON, June 21.—A strike by 2,400 United Rubber Workers halted all tire and other production at the General Tire & Rubber Co. at 12:01 a. m. today.

The executive board of the CIO-URW local 9 last night suddenly invoked strike action voted by the membership May 29. The union on May 2 filed a 30-day strike notice with the secretary of labor, the National Labor Relations board and Wage Stabilization board, but had continued contract negotiations.

The walkout at General brought the number of rubber workers idle in Akron to more than 9,000, as nearly 6,800 were out at Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.'s No. 1 and synthetic plants.

U. S. AGAINST SOVIET VETO IN ATOM RULE

United States Sticks To Own Proposal of Atomic Energy Proposal

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, June 21.—Backed up by President Truman's reaffirmation of American policy, Bernard M. Baruch and his advisors in the United Nations Atomic commission maintained a firm stand today against Russia's move to retain the veto power in relation to world control of atomic energy.

The President's statement in Washington yesterday re-emphasized Baruch's pronouncement to the council last week that the United States would not yield atomic secrets to a world pool or dispose of her bombs under treaty provisions unless the veto is discarded on atomic control matters.

Mr. Truman commented the Baruch proposal had his endorsement and said the American plan and that of Russia presented as a substitute would be subjects of negotiation which may lead to agreement. He emphasized the word "may."

Scrutinize Soviet Plan
With the atomic commission in recess until next Tuesday, Baruch and his advisors gave their closest scrutiny to the Russian plan submitted by Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko.

They were concerned particularly with Gromyko's insistence on keeping the Big Five powers in possession of their veto and the absence in the Russian plan of any provision for an international authority to search individual countries for evidences of atomic development, which might become dangerous.

The British plan envisions a virtually autonomous international atomic development authority, which would be armed with unprecedented powers of search, seizure and punishment.

The Russian substitute would leave authority with the Security council, operating with the veto over posed so that one big five power could stop any restrictive action against a potential atomic aggressor, and would provide sanctions as international punishment.

To Inspect War Areas
While Baruch proposed an international law "with teeth in it" to punish violators, the Russian plan would have individual nations enact legislation providing "severe punishment" for violations.

The U. N. Economic and Social council, working through the night, rejected a Russian-supported motion by Yugoslavia for a general fact-finding commission in the new international refugee organization.

A 20-nation commission was formed to investigate war-devastated areas and recommend reconstruction.

Akron Soldier Missing On Mountain Hike

ROCKY MOUNTAIN NATIONAL PARK, Colo., June 21. Pvt. Thomas H. Evans, 19, of Akron, O., has been missing since he went for a hike last Sunday in the sub-freezing temperatures of a rugged Rocky mountain trail, Park Superintendent David H. Canfield said today.

Pvt. Evans came to the park on an outing with some 200 other soldiers stationed at Lowry field, Denver, and left his friends for a short hike just before the buses were to return them to Denver, Canfield said.

Carrying no food or equipment, he left them on a rocky trail that extends 20 miles along Flattop mountain from Bear Lake to Grand lake. There are several drops of 1,000 feet or more along the way.

Snow fell on the trail Tuesday and Wednesday.

Crop Dusting From Plane Attracts Crowd

Between 1,000 to 1,500 persons witnessed a demonstration of potato dusting by airplane Thursday evening at the Firestone farms, east of Columbiana.

Two planes, flying from the Greenford airport, dusted 150 acres of potatoes with DDT and talc during the demonstration.

Many of the spectators were district growers who evinced an interest in the method and results of airplane crop dusting.

The planes flew at 80 miles per hour and covered the fields at an altitude of 10 feet.

A demonstration of orchard dusting will be conducted at 7:30 p. m. at the Price farm on Route 517, northeast of Lisbon.

The Flakota Crop Dusting Co. of Alliance, is sponsoring the demonstrations, in cooperation with the county farm extension office.

PRESBYTERY PLANS FOR INSTALLATION

Rev. David E. Molyneux, new pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will be installed at 8 p. m. Friday, June 28, at formal services conducted by the Mahoning Presbytery.

Rev. William MacCallmont, pastor of the Akron Westminster Presbyterian church, will deliver the installation sermon, and the moderator of the Presbytery, Rev. Paul W. Gauss of Youngstown will preside.

Rev. Paul Gerrard of Lisbon will give the charge to the congregation while the charge to the pastor will be given by Rev. James Brown, pastor of the Aspinwall, Pa. First Presbyterian church.

A social period with refreshments will be held in the chapel.

Northeast Ohio Conference Assails Tactics of Labor Leaders

(By Associated Press)
LAKESIDE, June 21.—Tactics of industrial and labor leaders who foment strikes, lockouts and production and distribution "slowdowns" in industrial warfare were assailed today in a report accepted by the Northeast Ohio Conference of the Methodist church.

The conference's annual assembly of nearly 1,000 ministers and laymen yesterday approved a report of the group's social service commission submitted by Dr. Russell J. Humbert, pastor of Trinity church, Youngstown.

The commission condemned use of strikes and lockouts in industrial labor disputes, and refusal of industries to produce and distribute at full scale for the peacetime market.

Urge Christian Action
The conference voted to take Christian action in labor problems by organizing coalition agencies in churches, ministerial groups and community organizations, and approved religious, labor and industrial fellowships to exchange factional points of view.

In a questionnaire, members favored national prohibition, progressive international disarmament, international development of atomic energy, equal rights for negroes, church leadership in reconciliation of labor and management, more stringent and uniform divorce laws, and opposed distribution of alcoholic beverages, government production and compulsory peacetime military training.

Hope Confirms Sale Of Cleveland Indians

(By Associated Press)
LITTLE ROCK, June 21.—The Arkansas Democrat today quoted comedian Bob Hope as saying a deal for purchase of the Cleveland Indians already had "gone through" and that he had bought a "big chunk" of the baseball club.

Hope, associated with Bill Veek, former Milwaukee brewer president, in negotiations for purchase of the club, made the disclosure in an interview with the Little Rock newspaper just before departing for Omaha, Neb.

Informing that the latest word of negotiations was pending a vote among current stockholders of the club, Hope roared:

"Whadda ya mean, is the deal definite? They've got my money. Of course, it's definite. I sent the check yesterday."

Hope declined to disclose the amount of money he had put up for his share of the Indians but said it was "a big chunk."

The radio and screen funny man said he would be too busy to take an active part in operation of the Cleveland team and that he would be a "silent partner."

19 AGE MINIMUM IS COMPROMISE; O. K. PAY BOOSTS

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 21.—The slam-bang congressional struggle over peacetime drafting of teenagers subsided near a compromise finish today with 19-year-olds once more subject to call and youths of 18 exempt.

Only the usual house and senate approval of the hard-fought conference agreement, was needed to assure a nine months extension of Selective Service beyond the end of the month.

Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) saw a slight chance the house might act late today if two pending bills could be cleared, but it appeared more probable the measure would not be reached before next Monday or Tuesday.

Compromise Battle Looms
A floor battle against accepting the compromise was promised by Rep. Short (R-Mo.), lone member of the 14 senate and house conferees whose signature did not appear on the final compromise.

"There is no need at all to extend the wartime draft," Short told reporters. "I am unalterably opposed to taking any teen-agers and I also favor holding up all inductions for a few months as previously voted by the house majority."

Despite Short's opposition, congressional leaders expected both the senate and house to approve the conference report and send it to the White House well ahead of the June 30 deadline when the present stop-gap draft extension expires.

Along with the draft act extension, the conferees also approved a pay increase plan for all men and officers of all the armed services.

New Pay Scales
The senate originally incorporated pay increases in its draft extension measure. The increases were limited to enlisted personnel with biggest jumps for army privates, corporals and sergeants along with corresponding lowest graders of other services. This was aimed at attracting volunteers and thus reducing the need for drafted men.

However, the conferees decided to go along with the house idea of a separate bill, giving a 50 per cent pay boost to the bottom enlisted grades, and providing graduated increases for other non-commissioned and commissioned personnel up to generals.

The new pay scales would give army privates and navy apprentices $75 a month instead of the present $60, while generals and admirals at the top of the ladder would draw $733.33, as compared with the present $667.67.

Only important change made in the separate house plan was to up the increase for army captains and navy lieutenants from 10 per cent to 15 per cent.

Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) of the senate military committee said the overall increases would add an estimated $632,000,000 annually to taxpayers' bills. The senate pay boosts would have cost an additional $350,000,000.

The bill would meet all manpower needs of the War department, Thomas predicted.

One Crash Investigated, Three Drivers Are Fined

State highway patrolmen investigated one accident Thursday, in which no one was injured and made three arrests which resulted in fines.

Cars operated by Earl A. Frost, 37, of Wellsville, and Cleon Aldrich, 33, of Sherman, N. Y., collided on Route 30, near Memorial park outside of East Liverpool, at 7:55 p. m. Frost told patrolmen he lost control.

Frank Sabony, 42, of Manville, N. J., and Alfred Nayhouse, 27, of Pittsburgh, drew fines of $10 and costs in Mayor K. T. Gormley's court at Columbiana on speeding charges.

HARD COAL TO JUMP $1 TON WITHIN WEEK

Action Taken To Offset Wage Gains for Miners, Operators' Losses

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 21.—OPA today raised soft coal prices an average of 40 1/2 cents a ton to offset wage increases and other gains which John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers received in their strike.

The increases range from 10 cents to $1.47 a ton, depending upon the producing district and type of mine. They boost retail prices about 3 1/2 per cent, OPA estimated.

Part of the increase was allowed to offset losses suffered by the operators during the 59-day strike.

OPA expects to announce next week a price increase averaging perhaps $1 a ton for hard coal, used generally for home-heating. This also will offset anthracite miners' pay raises.

Effective At Once
The soft coal price order is effective immediately, but in most cases the higher costs apply retroactively to all sales since May 13, when OPA authorized seller-buyer agreements for later payment of any increases granted.

The new price schedule applies at present only while the bituminous mines are operated by the government, which seized the pits during the strike which ended May 29.

President Truman told his news conference yesterday he did not know when the government will turn back the mines to their owners.

Bituminous mine operators have delayed opening negotiations with Lewis, UMW president, until OPA granted price increases to compensate for wage hikes the government allowed.

There was no immediate sign the mine owners will start dickering with Lewis right away on a contract similar to the

Northeast Ohio Conference Assails Tactics of Labor Leaders

(By Associated Press)

LAKEVIEW, June 21.—Tactics of industrial and labor leaders who foment strikes, lockouts and production and distribution "slowdowns" in industrial warfare were assailed today in a report accepted by the Northeast Ohio Conference of the Methodist church.

The conference's annual assembly of nearly 1,000 ministers and laymen yesterday approved a report of the group's social service commission submitted by Dr. Russell J. Humbert, pastor of Trinity church, Youngstown.

The commission condemned use of strikes and lockouts in industrial labor disputes, and refusal of industries to produce and distribute at full scale for the peacetime market.

Urges Christian Action

The conference voted to take Christian action in labor problems by organizing reconciliation agencies in churches, ministerial groups and community organizations, and approved religious, labor and industrial fellowships to exchange factional points of view.

In a questionnaire, members favored national prohibition, progressive international disarmament, international development of atomic energy, equal rights for negroes, church leadership in reconciliation of labor and management, more stringent and uniform divorce laws, and opposed distribution of alcoholic beverages, government production and compulsory peacetime military training.

Hope Confirms Sale Of Cleveland Indians

(By Associated Press)

LITTLE ROCK, June 21.—The Arkansas Democrat today quoted comedian Bob Hope as saying a deal for purchase of the Cleveland Indians already had "gone through" and that he had bought a "big chunk" of the baseball club.

Hope, associated with Bill Veck, former Milwaukee brewer president, in negotiations for purchase of the club, made the disclosure in an interview with the Little Rock newspaper just before departing for Omaha, Neb.

Informed that the latest word from Cleveland was that completion of negotiations was pending a vote among current stockholders of the club, Hope roared:

"Whadda ya mean, is the deal definite; they've got my money. Of course, it's definite. I sent the check yesterday."

Hope declined to disclose the amount of money he had put up for his share of the Indians but said it was "a big chunk."

The radio and screen funny man said he would be too busy to take an active part in operation of the Cleveland team and that he would be a "silent partner."

Economic Tail Chasing

Most serious talking point used against letting prices find natural level is the threat of more work stoppages if prices rise.

There has been a general rise under OPA, but the agency's propagandists plainly intend to use further rises as the excuse for more strikes, which would interfere with production and aggravate the shortages spurring price inflation.

This kind of economic tail-chasing is justified on the part of unions by the fact prices are reflecting their success in getting higher wage rates. They reason that if higher wage rates justify higher prices, then higher prices justify still higher wage rates—and where the tail-chasing stops, short of exhaustion no one can say.

As between labor adjusting wage rates and employers adjusting prices, so higher rates can be paid, there is an important difference. Employers must make their adjustment not only to the unions but to the public. In order to stay in business and protect the equity of workers in their jobs, employers must find buyers.

This problem is illustrated by efforts of the automobile industry, whose product is being boosted in price above the reach of the bulk of potential buyers, to design new low-cost cars for a mass-production market. Unless the industry succeeds, automobiles will move back into the luxury class from which Henry Ford rescued them a generation ago.

The coal industry, forced to bear higher costs as a result of the contract made with its labor by government, must adjust itself to a less favorable competitive position relative to oil and gas. The shipping industry must adjust itself to low-cost competition from foreign countries. Thus, labor itself depends on the ability of management to create demand and satisfy it at prices the public can pay. In the game of economic tail-chasing, labor needs to discover that the tail it is chasing is its own.

Burning Down A Barn

The Eastland-Bridges proposal to amend the Constitution to cut back New Dealism in the Supreme Court by forcing retirement of Franklin D. Roosevelt's last appointees is spite-work. The two senators are angry.

Their proposal amounts to asking the American people to burn down what the New Dealers left of the Supreme Court barn—and all to get out four appointees. The means of bringing the court back into judicial balance do not lie in the jurisdiction of angry men.

The remedy is to regard the problem with the judicial balance expected of members of the court and to hope they may increasingly do likewise. With a few exceptions, self-improvement is a distinct possibility. This is not the first time members of the court have quarreled, and it isn't likely to be the last. Nor is it the first time the Supreme Court has appeared to be without judicial balance and consistency. It is too soon to forget that a great many Americans felt the same way about it in 1933 and thereafter. Fortunately, their attempts to tear it apart were blocked. An accident of politics finally gave them what they wanted.

As constituted at present, the Supreme Court needs and is getting apology. It stands as a monument to an angry executive's determination to have his way. But two pieces of spite-work do not add up to one stroke of statesmanship. The rehabilitation of the court is going to take vast wisdom and infinite patience. It will have to be done the way it always has been done before when the court faltered—by giving it, as vacancies occur, the best judicial minds the United States possesses.

The Eastland-Bridges proposal to limit appointments to three for each executive and thereby to get rid of Mr. Roosevelt's last four appointees—Douglas, Murphy, Jackson and Rutledge—is badly advised. It probably has no chance. It only confirms what thoughtful Americans know instinctively, that whenever partisan politicians tackle judicial problems they are more likely to behave like partisan politicians than judges.

Politicians' Compromise

If Selective Service Act extension goes through with the teen-age compromise including 19-year-olds, the legislators will not be able to claim credit for Solomonian wisdom.

It would mean that a young man graduating from high school before his 19th birthday would have to mark time pending induction. If he were a potential draftee, employers would not be interested in taking him on as a temporary employee. If he intended to continue his education, it hardly would be feasible to start what he could not finish.

It would be a politicians' compromise, a splitting of the difference that would please no one. The logical time to induct young men into military service is when they finish their high school education. For those who happen to finish closer to their 18th than their 19th birthdays it is no kindness to force them into an interlude of sitting on their hands before they can go on from there.

If Congress reasons that they have the option of enlisting, Congress needs to remember that enlistments are in direct ratio to the certainty of military service. By keeping draft legislation in suspense, Congress has hurt enlistments. There is no reason to believe the future will be any better than the past. More politicians' compromises will be forthcoming, until either necessity or a miraculous uprising of common sense dictates a military policy for the United States.

Unusual As Usual

June weather has quit being something to talk about and becoming something to think about. C. G.

Andrus, meteorologist in charge of the Cleveland weather bureau calls it a "marine climate," with the rain begetting more rain in a cycle that won't be broken until excess moisture leaves the soil and no longer can be drawn up by the sun.

The state needs to be dried out. Some dry statistics might help. Or a little better cross-ventilation, though nothing so robust as the tornadoes that have been blowing down buildings recently. Or it might be necessary to catch as much rain as possible in pans and pour it down the drain before the sun gets another chance at it.

Meanwhile, there is beginning to be danger that this may go down in history as the June that had only one day as rare as a day in June. Or was that in June a year ago that we had the perfect day?

At Least It's Quick

Now they're making a radio-clock which will waken the owner in the morning by turning on the set to a pre-determined program. What with all the programs of super-charged good cheer and frantically enthusiastic gossip sessions between husband and wife which seem to fill the air around getting-up time, it wouldn't surprise us if a lot of potential customers would stick to the soothing, fire-house jangle of the old alarm clock.

The Stars Say

For Saturday, June 22

AFFAIRS of major and far-reaching importance are under planetary stimuli to concentrate all the abilities and resources of fundamental significance in shaping the future, its happiness, prosperity and security. Shrewd endeavor, sound tactics and constructive ability, might bring lasting results.

However, there are hidden perils or subtle undercurrents that might defeat the best of plans and objectives. Deceit, treachery and fraud are seen. Offsetting, there is much in the way of charm, glamor and romance.

Those whose birthday it is may be torn between two opposing forces, one in the matter of concentrating the energies on hard work, shrewd insight and studied performance in putting the future safely, security, happiness and success on a firm and lasting basis.

The other offers lures of "parties," celebrations, social functions and domestic and romantic engagements. Charm, lure, beauty and love may prove overpowering to sturdy intentions.

A child born on this day may have many solid, sterling and enduring faculties and traits and will not be lacking in the finer forces of beauty, love and domesticity.

Special Snails

More than 2,000,000 edible snails are taken from France into London annually in normal times. These French snails are fed especially for restaurant trade on vine leaves and lettuce.

During normal times, fishermen of northwestern Europe took from the sea 1,000,000 tons of herring annually.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Fighting Infantile Paralysis

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D. INFANTILE paralysis or poliomyelitis terrifies not only by its known effects, but also by its mystery.

Apparently pouncing out of nowhere, it is doubly feared by parents because there seems to be no sure way of guarding against it. This is because the question of just how this disease spreads has never been fully answered.

At one time, it was thought to be air-borne. More recently, research workers have come to believe that insects may play a part in carrying the disease from one human to another.

Study Carried Out
Much light has been thrown on this problem by a study carried out in Chicago by Doctor Albert E. Casey of Birmingham, Alabama, and Dr. William I. Fishbein of Chicago, under the supervision of the President of the Chicago Board of Health.

In trying to determine just how the disease spreads most often, they found much evidence indicating that infantile paralysis is passed from one child to another just as are the other common diseases of childhood, by direct contact.

This discovery points the way to control of this crippling disorder by methods which have proved effective against other contagious, early diagnosis and isolation.

The study was made by watching children who had come in contact with another child who had infantile paralysis and determining whether or not they developed any symptoms like those of poliomyelitis.

As a result of this study it was found that once infantile paralysis enters a neighborhood there is no evidence that insects have any role in spreading the disease.

Direct Contact
There was a great deal of evidence that the disease was spread by direct contact. This was shown by the fact that many children who had come in contact with the disease developed poliomyelitis or disorders with fever like poliomyelitis, while in another group of children who were not in contact with the disease, very few developed such symptoms, and not one developed poliomyelitis.

It was concluded that in children from 1½ to 3½ years of age, infantile paralysis is as contagious as measles, mumps, or others of the well-known catching diseases of childhood.

Of the children studied, paralysis occurred in only one case out of six. Most of the cases were so mild that the physician was not called to take care of the child. Only about one out of every four cases would have been diagnosed if special efforts and tests had not been employed.

Protein In Spinal Fluid
It was interesting to note that even in the mildest cases there was an increase in the protein in the spinal fluid. It was believed, however, that even in the mildest cases there was enough reaction to the disease to produce immunity against it.

It seems, therefore, that there is good evidence that poliomyelitis is spread from one child to another, and that many children get the disease early in life, which makes them immune to the condition. It is only in occasional instances that paralysis occurs.

Further efforts must be exerted to find a method of diagnosing poliomyelitis early. In this way it may be possible to separate children who have the disease from those who do not have it, and in this way, perhaps, keep the disease from spreading.

Of course, whenever a child has symptoms like those of infantile paralysis, such as fever, headache, stiff neck and, perhaps, sickness to the stomach and vomiting, the physician should be called at once so that a diagnosis may be made.

Economic Tail Chasing

Most serious talking point used against letting prices find natural level is the threat of more work stoppages if prices rise.

There has been a general rise under OPA, but the agency's propagandists plainly intend to use further rises as the excuse for more strikes, which would interfere with production and aggravate the shortages spurring price inflation.

This kind of economic tail-chasing is justified on the part of unions by the fact prices are reflecting their success in getting higher wage rates. They reason that if higher wage rates justify higher prices, then higher prices justify still higher wage rates—and where the tail-chasing stops, short of exhaustion no one can say.

As between labor adjusting wage rates and employers adjusting prices, so higher rates can be paid, there is an important difference. Employers must make their adjustment not only to the unions but to the public. In order to stay in business and protect the equity of workers in their jobs, employers must find buyers.

This problem is illustrated by efforts of the automobile industry, whose product is being boosted in price above the reach of the bulk of potential buyers, to design new low-cost cars for a mass-production market. Unless the industry succeeds, automobiles will move back into the luxury class from which Henry Ford rescued them a generation ago.

The coal industry, forced to bear higher costs as a result of the contract made with its labor by government, must adjust itself to a less favorable competitive position relative to oil and gas. The shipping industry must adjust itself to low-cost competition from foreign countries. Thus, labor itself depends on the ability of management to create demand and satisfy it at prices the public can pay. In the game of economic tail-chasing, labor needs to discover that the tail it is chasing is its own.

Burning Down A Barn

The Eastland-Bridges proposal to amend the Constitution to cut back New Dealism in the Supreme Court by forcing retirement of Franklin D. Roosevelt's last appointees is spite-work. The two senators are angry.

Their proposal amounts to asking the American people to burn down what the New Dealers left of the Supreme Court barn—and all to get out four appointees. The means of bringing the court back into judicial balance do not lie in the jurisdiction of angry men.

The remedy is to regard the problem with the judicial balance expected of members of the court and to hope they may increasingly do likewise. With a few exceptions, self-improvement is a distinct possibility. This is not the first time members of the court have quarreled, and it isn't likely to be the last. Nor is it the first time the Supreme Court has appeared to be without judicial balance and consistency. It is too soon to forget that a great many Americans felt the same way about it in 1933 and thereafter. Fortunately, their attempts to tear it apart were blocked. An accident of politics finally gave them what they wanted.

As constituted at present, the Supreme Court needs and is getting apology. It stands as a monument to an angry executive's determination to have his way. But two pieces of spite-work do not add up to one stroke of statesmanship. The rehabilitation of the court is going to take vast wisdom and infinite patience. It will have to be done the way it always has been done before when the court faltered—by giving it, as vacancies occur, the best judicial minds the United States possesses.

The Eastland-Bridges proposal to limit appointments to three for each executive and thereby to get rid of Mr. Roosevelt's last four appointees—Douglas, Murphy, Jackson and Rutledge—is badly advised. It probably has no chance. It only confirms what thoughtful Americans know instinctively, that whenever partisan politicians tackle judicial problems they are more likely to behave like partisan politicians than judges.

Politicians' Compromise

If Selective Service Act extension goes through with the teen-age compromise including 19-year-olds, the legislators will not be able to claim credit for Solomonian wisdom.

It would mean that a young man graduating from high school before his 19th birthday would have to mark time pending induction. If he were a potential draftee, employers would not be interested in taking him on as a temporary employee. If he intended to continue his education, it hardly would be feasible to start what he could not finish.

It would be a politicians' compromise, a splitting of the difference that would please no one. The logical time to induct young men into military service is when they finish their high school education. For those who happen to finish closer to their 18th than their 19th birthdays it is no kindness to force them into an interlude of sitting on their hands before they can go on from there.

If Congress reasons that they have the option of enlisting, Congress needs to remember that enlistments are in direct ratio to the certainty of military service. By keeping draft legislation in suspense, Congress has hurt enlistments. There is no reason to believe the future will be any better than the past. More politicians' compromises will be forthcoming, until either necessity or a miraculous uprising of common sense dictates a military policy for the United States.

Unusual As Usual

June weather has quit being something to talk about and becoming something to think about. C. G.

Andrus, meteorologist in charge of the Cleveland weather bureau calls it a "marine climate," with the rain begetting more rain in a cycle that won't be broken until excess moisture leaves the soil and no longer can be drawn up by the sun.

The state needs to be dried out. Some dry statistics might help. Or a little better cross-ventilation, though nothing so robust as the tornadoes that have been blowing down buildings recently. Or it might be necessary to catch as much rain as possible in pans and pour it down the drain before the sun gets another chance at it.

Meanwhile, there is beginning to be danger that this may go down in history as the June that had only one day as rare as a day in June. Or was that in June a year ago that we had the perfect day?

At Least It's Quick

Now they're making a radio-clock which will waken the owner in the morning by turning on the set to a pre-determined program. What with all the programs of super-charged good cheer and frantically enthusiastic gossip sessions between husband and wife which seem to fill the air around getting-up time, it wouldn't surprise us if a lot of potential customers would stick to the soothing, fire-house jangle of the old alarm clock.

The Stars Say

For Saturday, June 22

AFFAIRS of major and far-reaching importance are under planetary stimuli to concentrate all the abilities and resources of fundamental significance in shaping the future, its happiness, prosperity and security. Shrewd endeavor, sound tactics and constructive ability, might bring lasting results.

However, there are hidden perils or subtle undercurrents that might defeat the best of plans and objectives. Deceit, treachery and fraud are seen. Offsetting, there is much in the way of charm, glamor and romance.

Those whose birthday it is may be torn between two opposing forces, one in the matter of concentrating the energies on hard work, shrewd insight and studied performance in putting the future safely, security, happiness and success on a firm and lasting basis.

The other offers lures of "parties," celebrations, social functions and domestic and romantic engagements. Charm, lure, beauty and love may prove overpowering to sturdy intentions.

A child born on this day may have many solid, sterling and enduring faculties and traits and will not be lacking in the finer forces of beauty, love and domesticity.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Fighting Infantile Paralysis

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
INFANTILE paralysis or poliomyelitis terrifies not only by its known effects, but also by its mystery.

Apparently pouncing out of nowhere, it is doubly feared by parents because there seems to be no sure way of guarding against it. This is because the question of just how this disease spreads has never been fully answered.

At one time, it was thought to be air-borne. More recently, research workers have come to believe that insects may play a part in carrying the disease from one human to another.

Study Carried Out
Much light has been thrown on this problem by a study carried out in Chicago by Doctor Albert E. Casey of Birmingham, Alabama, and Dr. William I. Fishbein of Chicago, under the supervision of the President of the Chicago Board of Health.

In trying to determine just how the disease spreads most often, they found much evidence indicating that infantile paralysis is passed from one child to another just as are the other common diseases of childhood, by direct contact.

This discovery points the way to control of this crippling disorder by methods which have proved effective against other contagious, early diagnosis and isolation.

The study was made by watching children who had come in contact with another child who had infantile paralysis and determining whether or not they developed any symptoms like those of poliomyelitis.

As a result of this study it was found that once infantile paralysis enters a neighborhood there is no evidence that insects have any role in spreading the disease.

Direct Contact

There was a great deal of evidence that the disease was spread by direct contact. This was shown by the fact that many children who had come in contact with the disease developed poliomyelitis or disorders with fever like poliomyelitis, while in another group of children who were not in contact with the disease, very few developed such symptoms, and not one developed poliomyelitis.

It was concluded that in children from 1½ to 3½ years of age, infantile paralysis is as contagious as measles, mumps, or others of the well-known catching diseases of childhood.

Of the children studied, paralysis occurred in only one case out of six. Most of the cases were so mild that the physician was not called to take care of the child. Only about one out of every four cases would have been diagnosed if special efforts and tests had not been employed.

Protein In Spinal Fluid

It was interesting to note that even in the mildest cases there was an increase in the protein in the spinal fluid. It was believed, however, that even in the mildest cases there was enough reaction to the disease to produce immunity against it.

It seems, therefore, that there is good evidence that poliomyelitis is spread from one child to another, and that many children get the disease early in life, which makes them immune to the condition. It is only in occasional instances that paralysis occurs.

Further efforts must be exerted to find a method of diagnosing poliomyelitis early. In this way it may be possible to separate children who have the disease from those who do not have it, and in this way, perhaps, keep the disease from spreading.

Of course, whenever a child has symptoms like those of infantile paralysis, such as fever, headache, stiff neck and, perhaps, sickness to the stomach and vomiting, the physician should be called at once so that a diagnosis may be made.

Black Market Meat
Beyond Law's Reach

COLUMBUS, June 20 — Black marketeers have stored "hundreds of tons" of illegally slaughtered meat in Columbus refrigerators without fear of governmental prosecution, an OPA official reported today.

They're beyond the law's reach, said James Worster, head of OPA market control for southern Ohio. The meat is private property and cannot be disturbed unless there is concrete evidence of criminal violation. The lockers, also private property, cannot be opened without the owners' permission.

Worster took a Columbus Dispatch reporter on a visit yesterday to one of the lockers. They found a rooming with crudely butchered meat.

There are hundreds of tons of meat stored in Columbus lockers that were obtained under black market conditions. It was slaughtered in filthy surroundings and sent away without the slightest inspection.

GLAMOR CLOTHES DEMAND SMART HANDBAGS

The glamorous new summer clothes demand something special in the way of accessories. Handbags, for instance, are an important item, as they have to go everywhere and carry your most needed possessions. Choose the bag that is attractive, of course, then one that is large enough to hold all the things you need, and last, one that is durable. The envelope, top left, is made of plastic patent and has a top-zipper cuff emphasized by a white ornament. Below is a semi-barrel shape pouch also of plastic. It has soft dressmaker pleats front and back, and a whitecap frame. The new looking plastic patent pouch bag, right, has pleats back and front, and a whitecap frame gives a gay, cool accent. All these bags were designed by Josef. (International)

Over-Serious Girls Should Work
To Develop Gay Sense Of Humor

By ALICIA HART

A sense of humor is a gift which some people come by naturally—others have to work to obtain.

You can cultivate a sense of humor—or what passes for it—by, first of all, brushing chips off your shoulders and ousting grudges.

The minute you can learn to laugh at yourself—shortcomings, mistakes, foolishness—you are off to a flying start. On the way, look for the funny side of the solemn subject—there usually is one. It takes only a little digging to find it. Many a lass owes her reputation as a wit to the trick of kidding solemnities.

The ability to toss off a clever pun on words has helped other girls to impress people that they have a fine sense of humor, but it is just as well to lay off puns, unless they're clever. Poor ones have the effect of making people wince and sometimes groan.

German Kill Who Killed
GI Gets Life In Prison

NUERNBERG, June 21.—Blonde Erika Krebe, 20-year-old German girl, was sentenced today to life imprisonment for murdering Sgt. Robert E. Flanagan of Peoria, Ill.

A military court convicted the pretty killer just nine days after the American soldier was shot to death in his apartment here.

German doctors testified the girl at one time might have shown signs of pregnancy but not now.

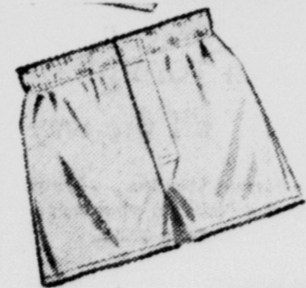

When she was arrested for the killing, she asserted she was going to have a child, that Flanagan had spurned her love and laughed at her, and that she was upset by seeing another German girl leave his apartment as she arrived.

Black Market Meat Beyond Law's Reach

COLUMBUS, June 20 — Black marketers have stored "hundreds of tons" of illegally slaughtered meat in Columbus refrigerators without fear of governmental prosecution, an OPA official reported today.

They're beyond the law's reach, said James Worster, head of OPA district control for southern Ohio, because the meat is private property and cannot be disturbed unless there is concrete evidence of criminal violation. The lockers, also private property, cannot be opened without the owners' permission.

Worster took a Columbus Dispatch reporter on a visit yesterday to one of the lockers. They found a building with crudely butchered meat, Worster said.

There are hundreds of tons of meat stored in Columbus lockers that were obtained under black market conditions. It was slaughtered in filthy surroundings and sent away without the slightest inspection.

The glamorous new summer clothes demand something special in the way of accessories. Handbags, for instance, are an important item, as they have to go everywhere and carry your most needed possessions. Choose the bag that is attractive, of course, then one that is large enough to hold all the things you need, and last, one that is durable. The envelope, top left, is made of plastic patent and has a top-zipper cuff emphasized by a white ornament. Below is a semi-barrel shape pouch also of plastic. It has soft dressmaker pleats front and back, and a whitecap frame. The new looking plastic patent pouch bag, right, has pleats back and front, and a whitecap frame gives a gay, cool accent. All these bags were designed by Josef. (International)

Over-Serious Girls Should Work To Develop Gay Sense Of Humor

By ALICIA HART

A sense of humor is a gift which some people come by naturally—others have to work to obtain.

You can cultivate a sense of humor—or what passes for it—by, first of all, brushing chips off your shoulders and ousting grudges.

The minute you can learn to laugh at yourself—shortcomings, mistakes, foolishness—you are off to a flying start. On the way, look for the funny side of the solemn subject—there usually is one. It takes only a little digging to find it. Many a lass owes her reputation as a wit to the trick of kidding solemnities.

The ability to toss off a clever pun on words has helped other girls to impress people that they have a fine sense of humor, but it is just as well to lay off puns, unless they're clever. Poor ones have the effect of making people wince and sometimes groan.

LEETONIA AUXILIARY OF LEGION TO MEET

German Kill Who Killed GI Gets Life In Prison

NUERNBERG, June 21.—Blonde Erika Krebs, 20-year-old German girl, was sentenced today to life imprisonment for murdering Sgt. Robert E. Flanagan of Peoria, Ill.

A military court convicted the pretty killer just nine days after the American soldier was shot to death in his apartment here.

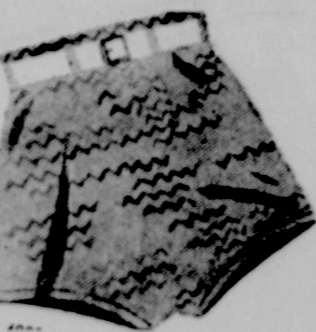

German doctors testified the girl at one time might have shown signs of pregnancy but not now.

When she was arrested for the killing, she asserted she was going to have a child, that Flanagan had spurned her love and laughed at her, and that she was upset by seeing another German girl leave his apartment as she arrived.

SIDELIGHTS ON PALESTINE PROBLEM

Important factors behind the crisis in Palestine are illustrated on the maps above, prepared from data in the report of the recent Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry. Map at left shows number of Jews in European countries when the war started in 1939 and at its end, 1946. There are 5,722,100 fewer. Some of the difference represents Jews killed. Of the remainder, thousands found refuge in England, U. S., and other countries, but other thousands seek entry into Palestine, which the Arabs bitterly oppose. Map at right shows how settlement of non-Arabs is restricted in Palestine by limitations put on land purchases. In Zone 1, transfers of land except to a Palestinian Arab are prohibited "except in special circumstances." In Zone 2, transfers of land by a Palestinian Arab save to a Palestinian Arab are prohibited with the same exception. Zone 3 is free and unrestricted.

Reports On Memorial Plan At Friends Meeting

Miss Mary Herbert gave a report on the memorial for Mrs. Verica Cox, Friends missionary, who died at sea on her way to China last winter, at a meeting of the Esther Butler circle of the First Friends church Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Scott Herbert, W. State st.

Plans were made for a picnic Thursday evening, July 11, at Quaker canyon, Damascus, for members and their husbands.

Mrs. Herbert and her associate hostess, Mrs. H. C. Haviland, served lunch.

Watch For These "OLD AGE SYMPTOMS" In Your Present Car

HEART FLUTTER
means engine trouble. If your car's engine is "rough" or sluggish, we'll test it and tell you what's wrong.

INDIGESTION
means carburetor or fuel pump trouble. Poor performance and gas mileage are "digestive" ailments. Our motor analysis shows how to cure them.

FAILING EYE SIGHT
calls for headlight test. Strong headlights—properly aimed—are important. Poor lights mean it's time for one of our check-ups.

LOW BLOOD PRESSURE
(low oil pressure). This symptom calls for ACTION. If oil pressure is low at operating speeds, find out why immediately!

RHEUMATISM
shows need for lubrication. Regular lubrication will check squeaky joints.

FLAT FEET
mean tire trouble. Like shoes, tires are scarce. Test inflation weekly and check cause of any abnormal wear.

LUNG TROUBLE
can result from a dirty air cleaner. Air cleaners should be cleaned to keep harmful abrasives out of engines. We clean them quickly and inexpensively.

Columbiana Saddle Club Plans Horse Show June 30

COLUMBIANA, June 21—The Columbiana Saddle and Bridle club will hold its third annual horse show Sunday, June 30, at 1:30 p. m. at the western entrance to Firestone park.

An added attraction will be the crowning of the "Queen" of the horse show, a number of candidates for which are now canvassing for votes.

The "Queen" flower girl and other attendants will appear on a horse-drawn float.

Twelve events will make up the program, with music by the American Legion band. Prizes are being provided by the merchants of Columbiana, Leetonia, and Salem. Judges will be Dr. Bookwalter, Dr. Russell Barber and Robert Harold, with Vernon Crouse as announcer.

Members of the club own 106 animals, which will appear with others in the show.

Washingtonville

Mrs. Emmett Brudery welcomed Wednesday night "500" club associates in her home. High score prizes went to Mrs. Merle Stouffer, Mrs. Lester Spear and Mrs. Albert Weikart. They will meet in two weeks with Mrs. Louis Stouffer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stouffer, Mrs. Lloyd Culler and George Firth were visitors in Akron Wednesday. They accompanied Mrs. Charles Brown to her home. She has been assisting in the George Firth home for the past three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stouffer, Jr., have gone to Cleveland where they will make their home.

Conclude Visit
Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nease and daughter, Mary, returned this week to their home in Belle, Calif., after visiting for three weeks with her father, J. C. Eyster and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron DeJane visited this week with her cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Pat McGurin at Brady's lake.

The fourth meeting of the Junior Thimble Fingers 4-H club was held at 6 Wednesday at the town hall. Dorothy Ann Kornbau presided, when the activities were planned for the next meeting. The girls sewed tea towels.

The recreation period was in charge of Audrey Fiscus, Rheta Toland and Dorothy Ann Kornbau. Prizes were given in the contests. The next meeting is scheduled for 1:30 p. m. June 26 at the town hall, at which time a Columbiana county nurse will examine the girls.

Mrs. William Waggoner of Leetonia spent Thursday in the home of her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Reese.

The South Side club were guests of Mrs. Albert Ritchie Wednesday evening. Cards were enjoyed with prizes going to Mrs. Norman Kornbau, Mrs. Louis Atkinson and Mrs. Lloyd Culler. Guests were Mrs. Elmer Bowers, Sr., and Mrs. Joseph Lees. In two weeks they will meet with Mrs. Loren Weikart.

Mrs. Richard Hauer and son, Jeffrey, returned to Springfield after including a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Davis.

APPEALING SIMPLICITY
in Modern

IF you are MODERN minded, here again your desires can run riot. There are Matched Suites, Separate Sofas, . . . Sectional Sofas, and Sectional Curved Sofas from which to choose. All are in gay colorful coverings, new patterns and new color combinations.

3-PIECE SECTIONAL SOFAS

Because of their many different arrangements, Sectional Sofas are fast gaining in popularity. Use them in line as a regular sofa, make a corner grouping with them or use them as a Love Seat and companion chair. Divide the two arm pieces by using a table between them. You will enjoy their tricky possibilities. They're here in many styles, both high and low arm, and in fresh new colorings. Some at special prices.

'225 to 395

CURVED SECTIONAL SOFAS

Unlimited possibilities for room arrangement are yours if you choose one of these beautiful Curved Sectional Sofas. Use them around a corner, in a bay, or in front of a large window. OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN MILLHORN
LISBON, June 21.—Mrs. Matilda Millhorn, 84, died Thursday afternoon at the home of her son, O. F. Millhorn, R. D. 4, Lisbon, after an illness of several years.
Born in Jefferson county, Dec. 30, 1861, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Monroe, she had lived in this vicinity for 30 years.
She was a member of the Presbyterian church. Her husband, John, died in 1921.
Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Robert Stacey of Lisbon, seven grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.
Funeral service will be held at the Henry funeral home at 3:30 p. m. Saturday in charge of Rev. Paul T. Gerrard. Burial will be in the Lisbon cemetery.
Friends may call at the funeral home this evening.

JOHN H. BASINGER
John Henry Basinger, 88, of 120 Court st., Canfield, died at 8:15 a. m. today at his home of arteriosclerosis after a two-year illness.
Born in Beaver township May 7, 1858, he was a son of Peter and Marie Basinger, and lived in Canfield 30 years, going there from Columbiana. He was married Nov. 2, 1915, to Mrs. Cordelia Cook of Canfield.
He was a member of the Brethren church of Columbiana.
He leaves his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Clifton Wensinger of Youngstown; five sons, Vincent and Evan of Columbiana, Dr. A. R. Basinger of North Canton, Galen of Cleveland, and Almon of Riverside, Calif., and eight grandchildren.
Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

ARMY PLANE SETS AIR SPEED MARK

DAYTON, June 21.—The U. S. Army's partly jet-propelled XA26F flying roundtrip Wright field and St. Louis, set a new speed record of 413 miles per hour Thursday over a 1,000 kilometer course, with a 1,000 kilogram payload.
The plane which took off from here at 11:07 a. m. EST, made the trip at 22,000 feet in one hour, 30 minutes and 50 seconds. Its turn in flight at St. Louis was checked by radar. It was powered by a combination of conventional and jet engines.
The present record of 369 miles per hour over the same course with the same payload was set last May by Lt. Edward Brabowski of the Strategic Air command.

THREE ARE KILLED IN DALLAS HOTEL BLAST

DALLAS, June 21.—At least three persons were killed and scores injured here today in an explosion at the Baker hotel.
Several of the injured are believed to have been hurt fatally.
The explosion, which occurred about 11:20 a. m., shook the central downtown business district. It was believed unofficially to have been caused by an exploding boiler and ammonia gas from shattered pipes in the air-conditioning system.

Mike Jacobs Brands Suit Threat As Publicity Stunt

NEW YORK, June 21.—Promoter Mike Jacobs when advised of the threatened damage suit for $100,000 which Rep. O'Toole (D-NY) told the house today he was filing, said: "I don't believe he'll dare to go through with it. The congressman merely is trying to get his name in the papers with election time coming up."

SEEING LIFE BEFORE BIRTH

SO THEY SAY

School home economics departments spend hours teaching pupils to make fancy sandwiches and nine telling them how to build a home. If we can't save the families we can't save America.

—Dr. Willis A. Sutton, former president, National Education Association.

Government interference with normal business processes must be kept at a minimum.
—Undersecretary of Commerce Alfred Schindler.

A reasonable spell of unemployment that eventuates in the placement of the worker at his highest skill is more productive in an economic sense than immediate placement in a job at a lower skill.

—Ewan Clague, director, Employment Security Bureau, Social Security board.

Valuable Time Lost

Total time lost by American workers due to accidents on and off the job in 1945 amounted to 415,000,000 man-days, or the equivalent of a shutdown of plants with nearly 1,400,000 workers.

STAGED FIRE RESCUE IN CIRCUS THRILLER STYLE

TO SAVE HIMSELF AND HIS WIFE from a fire that threatened their lives in a Chicago, Ill., rooming house, Robert Emmer, 24, ex-Navy man, staged a leap-for-life and an aerial catch worthy of a circus acrobat. Emmer (shown at right) writhes in agony as surgeons stitch up cuts received when he crashed through a window. He called to his wife, an expectant mother (shown at left in hospital), to follow him. She jumped in time for him to catch her wrists and pull her out of danger with only minor injuries. (International Soundphoto)

Senate Votes Promotion For Gen. Mark W. Clark

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Mark W. Clark's permanent promotion to major general won senate approval late yesterday despite criticism of his abortive attempts to force a crossing of the Rapido river in Italy in 1944.
Sen. Connally (D-Tex.) cabled his opposition from Paris and Sen. O'Daniel (D-Tex.) registered his disapproval on the floor before the senate's voice vote action.

The Texas Senators based their protests on contentions by soldiers of the 36th division—composed mainly of men from their state—that Clark used poor judgment and wasted lives in futile smashes against strong German positions along the Rapido.

Constant Eaters

Temperatures of birds range from 100 to 113 degrees. Circulation is so rapid and the food supply is burned so quickly that birds are forced to eat almost constantly to keep their small bodies supplied with fuel.

• SO THEY SAY

School home economics departments spend hours teaching pupils to make fancy sandwiches and nine telling them how to build a home. If we can't save the families we can't save America.
—Dr. Willis A. Sutton, former president, National Education Association.

Government interference with normal business processes must be kept at a minimum.
—Undersecretary of Commerce Alfred Schindler.

A reasonable spell of unemployment that eventuates in the placement of the worker at his highest skill is more productive in an economic sense than immediate placement in a job at a lower skill.

STAGED FIRE RESCUE IN CIRCUS THRILLER STYLE

TO SAVE HIMSELF AND HIS WIFE from a fire that threatened their lives in a Chicago, Ill., rooming house, Robert Emmer, 24, ex-Navy man, staged a leap-for-life and an aerial catch worthy of a circus acrobat. Emmer (shown at right) writhes in agony as surgeons stitch up cuts received when he crashed through a window. He called to his wife, an expectant mother (shown at left in hospital), to follow him. She jumped in time for him to catch her wrists and pull her out of danger with only minor injuries. (International Soundphoto)

Senate Votes Promotion For Gen. Mark W. Clark

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Mark W. Clark's permanent promotion to major general won senate approval late yesterday despite criticism of his abortive attempts to force a crossing of the Rapido river in Italy in 1944.
Sen. Connally (D-Tex.) cabled his opposition from Paris and Sen. O'Daniel (D-Tex.) registered his disapproval on the floor before the senate's voice vote action.

The Texas Senators based their protests on contentions by soldiers of the 36th division—composed mainly of men from their state—that Clark used poor judgment and wasted lives in futile smashes against strong German positions along the Rapido.

SEEING LIFE BEFORE BIRTH

What You Can Do In Case of Fire

Ten fundamental fire rules, upon which all authorities agree and which can be remembered by vacationers in crowded hotels as well as apartment dwellers and stay-at-homes, are listed by Fire Chief Vincent Malloy as follows:

1. Keep calm. Your life and others' depend upon this.
2. Sound the alarm for the fire department first, then notify others. Every second counts.
3. Never shout "fire" in a crowded public place.
4. Walk out, if you can. Don't run. Running causes panic.
5. Don't jump, except as a last resort to avoid actual burning.
6. Never open a hot door. Heated air kills before flames do.
7. Cover nose and mouth with a wet cloth.
8. Crawl along the floor to avoid lethal fumes.
9. Close all doors and windows after you to check the spread of flames and trapping of others.
10. If clothing is burning, lie down; roll in a rug or blanket.

WINONA

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Mountz were honored by a gift shower at the Methodist church Tuesday evening. Lunch was furnished by Mr. Mountz's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Mountz. Your GI Rights

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

The question of whether or not a particular veteran is eligible for the benefits of the GI Bill of Rights is, but the one most often asked in this column. The law says that any veteran of World War II who served on active duty in any one of the services more than 90 days, and who received a discharge other than dishonorable, is eligible.

Most of the prevalent confusion concerns men who served less than 90 days. The law says that if a man was discharged, due to a service-connected disability, within 90 days after induction, he is eligible.

When there was a desperate need for more men during the war, draft officials were sending practically anyone who could breathe up for induction. And induction doctors were in the habit of passing many borderline cases, in the hope that the Army could find something for them to do. In thousands of cases, these men who were passed but who didn't meet the physical standards were soon discovered to be more trouble than good, and so were discharged.

According to the law, these men are not eligible for GI rights. But many of them had their disabilities aggravated by the service. Long hours of drilling would make weak legs worse, for instance.

In most cases, the Army tried to give such men discharges which would make them eligible for the benefits of the GI bill, even though they served less than 90 days. But the Army made mistakes, and many men whose disabilities were aggravated were released with discharges which didn't make them eligible.

Apply To VA For Ruling

The thing for these men to do is to apply to the Veterans' Administration for a ruling on whether or not their disabilities are service-connected. If VA rules that they are, these veterans can apply to the Army for a change of discharge which will make them eligible for GI benefits.

The Army usually takes the VA's word for it that a man's disability is service-connected, and changes his discharge on that basis.

Time spent as an air cadet or in school while a member of the Army or Navy does not count as active duty towards eligibility for GI benefits.

Mental Patients To Be Transferred

COLUMBUS, June 21—Fifty patients from Longview State Hospital, Cincinnati, and 25 patients from MMassillon State Hospital will be transferred this week to Cambridge State Hospital, State Welfare Director Frazier Reams announced today.

Also scheduled for transfer to Cambridge next week are 50 other massillon patients and 25 patients from Columbus State Hospital, bringing the Cambridge patient population to 350.

Reams said the first transfer of feeble-minded delinquents to Cambridge will be made July 1 with 25 each to be sent from the Columbus and Orient State Schools.

The welfare director explained that of the 2000 patients expected to be quartered at Cambridge by the end of the year, about 500 will be defective delinquents from state schools.

Mental Patients To Be Transferred

COLUMBUS, June 21—Fifty patients from Longview State Hospital, Cincinnati, and 25 patients from Mansfield State Hospital will be transferred this week to Cambridge State Hospital, State Welfare Director Frazier Reams announced today.

Also scheduled for transfer to Cambridge next week are 50 other mental patients and 25 patients from Columbus State Hospital, bringing the Cambridge patient population to 350.

Reams said the first transfer of feeble-minded delinquents to Cambridge will be made July 1 with 25 each to be sent from the Columbus and Orient State Schools.

The welfare director explained that of the 2000 patients expected to be quartered at Cambridge by the end of the year, about 500 will be defective delinquents from state schools.

By HAL BOYLE

ZURICH, Switzerland—The Swiss are there is only one unemployed person in their industrially booming little land—Mr. Zippel.

Zippel is head of the federal unemployment commission. He has no work.

A short is Switzerland on workers that she is importing some 20,000 to 40,000 Italians to help fill world orders for textiles, chemicals and machinery.

Our primary problem is to fill the orders we have," said one textile manufacturer. "We are short of raw materials. Normally we import one-third of our fine cotton yarn from England has been unable to supply us. They try to sell but don't ship."

The United States is now second only to Sweden as a customer and supply source for Switzerland.

One of the best outlets for the world-known embroidery industry centering at St. Gall is the American army of occupation in Germany.

"Your army post exchanges here take all the embroidered handkerchiefs we can ship," said Fred Hug of the Swiss Chamber of Commerce.

Swiss embroidery exports last year amounted to $15,000,000. Seventy-five per cent of all ladies' handkerchiefs made at St. Gall went to America.

Strikes are increasing in the textile trades, but there is no widespread labor unrest in Switzerland. Unions are organized in three-fourths of Swiss industry, about 70 per cent of the workers are insured against accident and sickness and two-thirds are covered by old age pension plans.

There have been no strikes in the engineering industry for six years," one leader told me. "Our contracts run for three years, and labor and management post a $100,000 franc guarantee that the contract terms will be carried out."

Some 120,000 persons are engaged in selling scenery to tourists, a major source of income in rocky Switzerland's tightly integrated economy.

The vacationers are increasing, but in most cases bring little money because of currency restrictions in their own countries.

"Tourists now are more interested in shopping than in sight-seeing," complained one old guide. "They really come only to buy now because there are more goods in our stores than they can find at home."

Tourist traffic isn't expected to reach big-scale proportions until next year. Meanwhile Swiss hotels, many of which have been shut down for six years, are busy renovating. The chief improvement needed—more hotel bathrooms.

The Swiss are proud of their freedom. There is a saying that the Swiss constitution has only two provisions: (1) You can do what you like, and (2) you don't have to do that.

"If there were only three Swiss," he said, "they would have four opinions on any subject and would organize into five clubs."

GREENFORD COUPLE PLANS OBSERVANCE

GREENFORD, June 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Homer Price will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday afternoon and evening, June 30.

Children's day exercises will be held Sunday evening at the Locust Grove Baptist church at 8:30 p. m.

Grange Event Is Success

More than 200 attended the county project meeting at the Greenford grange hall Tuesday evening. Greenford grange had charge of the business meeting. Smith exemplified the fourth degree and North Lima presented the program.

Six new members were initiated into the Greenford grange. Over 60 of these were juveniles. Goshen juvenile grange, under the direction of Mrs. Roy Capel, put on the juvenile program.

Mrs. D. M. Charlton, Mrs. D. R. McConnell, and Mrs. Emmett Justice were judges Thursday evening at the kitchen curtain and prune bread contest at North Lima.

Mrs. Witmer Hostess

Mrs. Edward Witmer entertained the Needlers club Wednesday evening. The group presented Mrs. Lewis Brown a gift honoring her birthday. Mrs. Lewis Brown will be hostess in July.

Mrs. Russell Huffman received members of the Home Circle club when they voted to purchase 100 cans for the Grange which is sponsoring a canning project for the starving overseas. Lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Perry Cook and Mrs. A. A. Stewart. The group will meet with Mrs. Edwin Bush in July.

Mrs. R. O. Williams entertained members of the Jolly Time club. Mrs. D. M. Charlton will be hostess in July.

When natural rubber is used in making passenger car tires, the output from two trees for a whole year is necessary to supply rubber for a small pneumatic tire weighing about 20 pounds.

Reams Seeks Better Prison Facilities After Women Escape

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, June 21—The State Welfare department has asked the board of control for $115,800 additional for the construction of a new hospital and security building at the Marysville reformatory for women, Director Frazier Reams disclosed today.

The additional money, Reams explained, is needed because the low bid for the building was $352,434—$107,251 above the $260,000 appropriation made by the last legislature.

"This is an emergency measure and must be handled rapidly," Reams wrote the board.

Reams' request for quick action was pointed up early today by the 10-minute escape of three women inmates, one of whom was serving a life term for first degree murder. Workers of the state highway department captured the women as they attempted to hitch a ride.

Their names were given as Eileen McBride, 21, Cincinnati, serving one to two years for forgery; Bessie Green, 19, Salem, one to seven for bigamy, and Olive May Long, 24, Wellsville, life for first degree murder.

Reams said two years would be added to the women's sentences and that they would be held in a disciplinary cottage for 30 days with all privileges withdrawn.

COLUMBIANA PLANS ALLEN AVE. PAVING

COLUMBIANA, June 21—City council at its meeting Tuesday evening declared the paving of Allen ave a necessary improvement and will complete the work and assess the costs on the owners of abutting property.

Ben Gardner asked council to ascertain what could be done about raising the fee for garbage collection. He said the work has increased until it is too much for one man, but that the present fee would not justify hiring a helper. Council will consider the matter further.

Sons May Be Right

DETROIT—A father of four veterans, concerned over his sons' apathy towards marriage, inserted the following ad in a Detroit community newspaper:

GIRLS!
NOT ONE — BUT FOUR.
"Eligible ex-servicemen, free, single and unattached."
"All six feet tall, well groomed, good character, Ages 20 to 24."
"This ad is inserted by their father without their knowledge to refute their statement that all eligible girls are married."
"Why not assist their father to prove they are wrong by replying to this ad?"
Only five girls responded.

ana cemetery asked some clarification as to whose instructions to heed in the matter of hiring help at the cemetery. He said he had been instructed to have a helper both full time and only part time. The matter will be settled at the next meeting of council, when the cemetery board will be present.

Work on a N. Main st. sewer connection was ordered stopped until some difficulties could be ironed out.

In response to inquiries, property owners are informed that oiling alleys will be at their own expense.

Plan W.C.T.U. Institute

The Columbiana County W.C.T.U. will hold an institute in the Methodist church at Rogers, Friday, June 28, with sessions at 10 a. m. and 1:30 p. m.

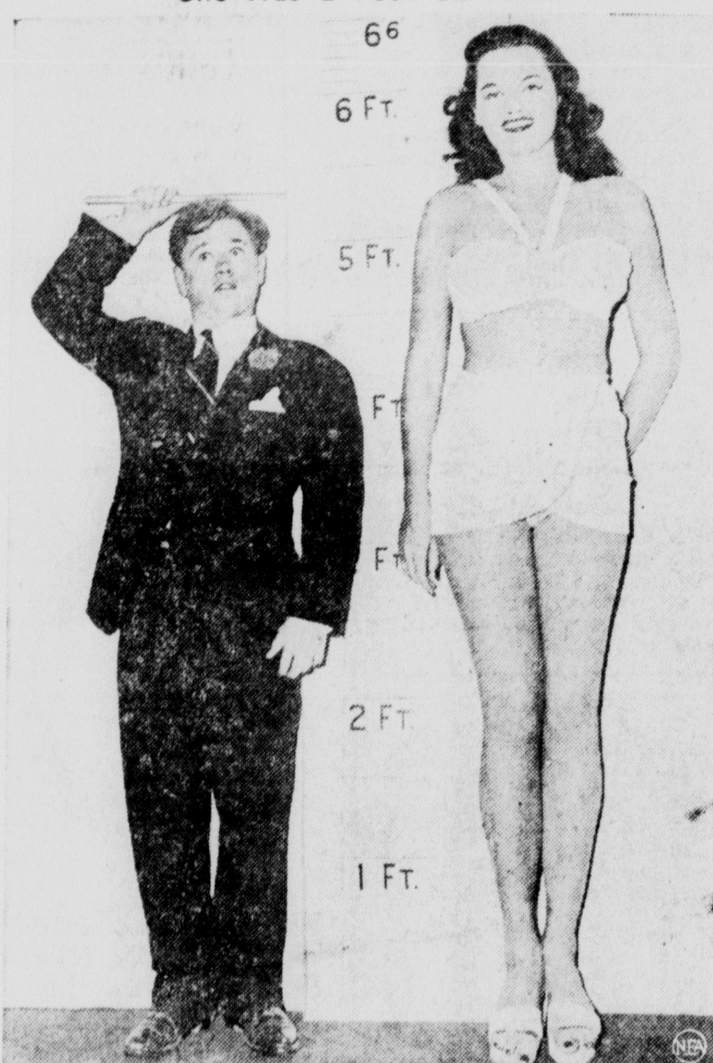

Mrs. Cornelia Hyland of Columbiana is president of the county organization.

R. L. Hall of the Columbiana Realty Co. has bought of Emmett Varian the former Beard property on the west side of S. Main st., about one-half block south of the public square.

Club Warns of Schemes

LISBON, June 21—The "business bureau" of the Lisbon Kiwanis club today issued a warning to merchants and others against patronizing solicitors, agents who have been preying upon business men with their schemes. The board stated it would investigate and pass upon valid or bonafide propositions, but declared there are many schemes of no value to local merchants.

ATOMIC RESEARCH TO BE CONTINUED

WASHINGTON, June 21 — The Army's Manhattan project which turned out the atomic bomb, plans to keep up its activities "on about the present scale" during the coming year, congress was told today.

New laboratories, plus close collaboration with leading universities, will provide a "vigorous research program," Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves asserted in testimony made public as the house appropriations committee reported War department requests for the 1947 fiscal year.

Groves, commander of the project, said plans call for a new research center on the northeast part of the country to work with university laboratories in Washington, D. C., Boston, Rochester and Ithaca, N. Y.

Groves said the project is considering placing its new center at an army camp and has looked at Fort Devens, Mass., and four in New York — Camp Upton, Camp Shanks, Fort Slocum and Fort Hancock.

The Argonne laboratory in Chicago will be enlarged, he said, and

TAXI OWNER'S VIEWS

Editor, The News:
Concerning taxis being a danger to traffic in Salem, we have this to say:
We opened our downtown taxi office at the request of the many people who do not have a car of their own. They wanted a place where they could leave their packages while shopping and then take a cab home.

We have repeatedly asked the city to give us a taxi zone, along the curb, where we could take on and discharge passengers, as they have in other cities. This request has been refused time and time again and we see no reason why it cannot be granted. It would simply fix the entire situation for all of us. We are willing to cooperate in any way to avoid traffic accidents and traffic congestion at all times. The taxi is a vital part of the transportation system of Salem and should be considered as such.

Surgeon General Lauds Army Health

WASHINGTON, June 21 — The army is in the best general health ever, and quite proud of its record for saving war wounded.

On the other side of the ledger, venereal disease infection among troops in the United States has reached the highest rate since 1920, and is almost double the 1943 figure.

This clinical report went to congress today as the 1947 War department appropriation bill reached the floor.

Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, Army surgeon general, testified in hearings on the measure that there had been a marked decrease in the number of soldiers reporting sick in the past year. Hospital admissions for "important communicable diseases," other than venereal, also were down, and there were no major epidemics.

Casualties Shown

Kirk also reported more than a third of the entire war's U. S. battle casualties occurred during seven months of 1945, but only 4.4 per cent of them proved beyond the help of medical skill, as against the World War I figure of eight per cent.

Discussing the V. D. problem, Kirk said there were 49 venereal cases per 1,000 men in this country and an overseas average of 83 in 1945, with the rate in the Mediterranean the highest anywhere—132 per 1,000 men.

The average overseas rate has more than trebled in two years. Medical records produced at hearings on the bill showed rapid progress in new treatments which have reduced the average time lost per venereal case to only 49 days, as compared with 14 in 1942.

Surgeon General Lauds Army Health

WASHINGTON, June 21 — The army is in the best general health ever, and quite proud of its record for saving war wounded.

On the other side of the ledger, venereal disease infection among troops in the United States has reached the highest rate since 1920, and is almost double the 1943 figure.

This clinical report went to congress today as the 1947 War department appropriation bill reached the floor.

Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, Army surgeon general, testified in hearings on the measure that there had been a marked decrease in the number of soldiers reporting sick in the past year. Hospital admissions for "important communicable diseases," other than venereal, also were down, and there were no major epidemics.

Casualties Shown

Kirk also reported more than a third of the entire war's U. S. battle casualties occurred during seven months of 1945, but only 4.4 per cent of them proved beyond the help of medical skill, as against the World War I figure of eight per cent.

Discussing the V. D. problem, Kirk said there were 49 venereal cases per 1,000 men in this country and an overseas average of 83 in 1945, with the rate in the Mediterranean the highest anywhere—132 per 1,000 men.

The average overseas rate has more than trebled in two years.

Medical records produced at hearings on the bill showed rapid progress in new treatments which have reduced the average time lost per venereal case to only 4.9 days, as compared with 14 in 1942.

Recreation, Bowling Center And China Lead National Hitting

HOWDY KERR'S 526 PAGES INDIVIDUAL HITTERS WITH DALE RITCHIE IN SECOND

Statistically speaking the Recreation, Bowling Center and Salem China are the most potent batting outfits in the National league while Howdy Kerr of Deming is the league's top stick man.

Kerr, who has been clouting the apple with terrific power all season, is currently hitting a 526 pace, having hit safely 10 times in 19 trips to the plate.

Dale Ritchie, consistently a hard hitter from year to year, has 11 hits in 22 times up for a sterling 500 mark.

The third man in the loop, Ray McGaffick, also a Potter, is hitting 480, with 12 bingles in 25 trips—the most hits by any one man so far this year.

Lonnie Miller of Firestone, Ed Pukalski of the Recreation, Bob Allison of the Bowling Center, China Infelder Paul Scullion, Wayne "Kirby" Laughlin of the Bowling Center, Ralph Moffett of the Rec and Emmett Brudery of Deming bring up the next positions, all hitting 400 or better.

In the home run department so far this season Dick Lantz and Wayne Hahn, both of the Center team, have clouted three each to pace the league.

Orrie "Boss" Wright of the China, Vince Moore of the Saxons, Bill Ritchie of the Center and Sam Pridon of Deming have each tagged two four-baggers this year.

Individual records were necessarily limited to those men in the loop who are hitting 250 or better and have been at the plate at least 12 times.

Louis Now Plans Golf, Restaurant, Instead of Fight
No Candidates Around To Entertain Champion, Experts Say

BY GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, June 21.—Never before in the nine years since he won the heavyweight championship has Joe Louis stood out over the world's fighting men to the extent he does today.

When Joe knocked out Billy Conn Wednesday night he just about fought himself out of prospective challengers for his title.
Probably not since Jim Jeffries retired for lack of opposition has the field been so barren of contenders, men whom Promoter Mike Jacobs might hope to pit against Louis in a big outdoor fight. It would be difficult to guess when Joe will fight again.

Tami Mauriello, a blubbery Bronx heavyweight who recently beat Britain's novice champion, Bruce Woodcock, and Joe Walcott, Camden, N. J., Negro, who recently defeated Jimmy Bivins and Lee Oma, are about the only scrappers anyone can think of who might just possibly give Louis a few busy rounds at this time, and that is not an intriguing prospect.
Nat Rogers, Jacobs' matchmaker, admitted yesterday that it might be a year before some youngster would emerge and catch the public's fancy.

As outside possibilities in this category he named Jack Cranford of Washington, D. C., Jimmy Evans of Brooklyn and Omelia Agramonte of Puerto Rico. He also mentioned Tommy Gomez, the pride of Tampa, Fla., and said that maybe Woodcock would develop into some thing much better with more experience on this side of the water. But at no time did Nat sound enthusiastic.
It simply is that Louis is a truly great fighter, one of the outstanding athletic champions of all time, in any sport, and that it would be amazing if there chanced to come along at the same time a boxer of equal ability.

Conn, at least, was frank enough to admit after the second go-round that he didn't belong in the same ring with Joe and to announce his retirement from the game.
Louis, with no one to fight, intends to wrap himself up temporarily in golf, and the new restaurant he is opening out in Harlem, at Fifth avenue and 125th street. The latter will be known as the "Joe Louis" restaurant, and a syndicate is supposed to be sinking $300,000 in the establishment.

After I play a few golf tournaments I'm going to spend all my time at the restaurant," Joe said. "I'm going to play at Cleveland and then at Detroit and then at Chicago in the Tab O' Shanter open, and then I'm going to run the restaurant."

Thunderstruck Red Sox In Tailspin Bob Feller Started And Must Meet Him Tonight
By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

If the thunderstruck Boston Red Sox can still see through the fog that has engulfed them, they can take a good gander tonight at the Feller—Bob Feller, that is—who started them on their amazing retreat.
The mere sight of Cleveland's Rapid Robert, their scheduled opponent tonight—who may appear even more awesome under the Cleveland Municipal stadium arc lights—should bring back painful memories to Joe Cronin's chastened charges.

For it was the same Feller who halted the Red Sox mad dash for the American league flag just nine days ago when he snapped their 12-game winning streak and started them on their dizzy downward slide that has reduced their one-time seemingly insurmountable 10½ game first place lead to six and a half in a little over a week.
Still Ruling

Since Feller set them back on their heels June 12, the Bostonians have dropped seven of the last eight games including last night's 2-0 setback at the hands of the St. Louis Browns.
Sammy Zolack, a stringy Sophomore southpaw, applied the white-wash brush to the ragged Red Sox last night. He doled out four singles and was never in serious trouble.

Boston lost only a half game of its lead as the runner-up New York Yankees were held to a split in their double header by the Chicago White Sox. A neat eight-inning by bespectacled Bill Dietrich halted the Yankees 3-1 in the opener as Yankee pitching ace, Spud Chandler, gunning for his 11th victory, was forced to accept his third defeat.
Floyd Bevens gained the split for the Yanks by besting Lefty Ed Smith 6-1 in the nightcap.

Brooklyn's pace-setting Dodgers and the challenging St. Louis Cardinals readied themselves for their "crucial" three game series for the Rain washed out the scheduled double header between the Chicago Cubs and the Philadelphia Phillies. The New York Giants and Cincinnati Reds were not scheduled.

Thunderstruck Red Sox In Tailspin Bob Feller Started And Must Meet Him Tonight

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

If the thunderstruck Boston Red Sox can still see through the fog that has engulfed them, they can take a good ponder tonight at the Feller-Bob Feller, that is—what started them on their amazing retreat.

The mere sight of Cleveland's Rapid Robert, their scheduled opponent tonight—who may appear even more awesome under the Cleveland Municipal stadium arc lights—should bring back painful memories to Joe Cronin's chastened charges.

For it was the same Feller who halted the Red Sox mad dash for the American league flag just nine days ago when he snapped their 12-game winning streak and started them on their dizzy downward slide that has reduced their one-time seemingly insurmountable 10½ game first place lead to six and a half in a little over a week.

Still Ruling
Since Feller set them back on their heels June 12, the Bostonians have dropped seven of the last eight games including last night's 2-0 setback at the hands of the St. Louis Browns.

Sammy Zoladak, a stringy Sophomore southpaw, applied the whitewash brush to the ragged Red Sox last night. He doled out four singles and was never in serious trouble.

Boston lost only a half game of its lead as the runner-up New York Yankees were held to a split in their double header by the Chicago White Sox. A neat eight-hitter by bespectacled Bill Dietrich halted the Yankees 3-1 in the opener as Yankee pitching ace, Spud Chandler, gunning for his 11th victory, was forced to accept his third defeat.

Floyd Bevens gained the split for the Yanks by besting Lefty Ed Smith 6-1 in the nightcap.

Brooklyn's pace-setting Dodgers and the challenging St. Louis Cardinals readied themselves for their "crucial" three game series for the arily in golf, and the new restaurant he is opening out in Harlem, at Fifth avenue and 125th street.

The latter will be known as the "Joe Louis" restaurant, and a syndicate is supposed to be sinking $300,000 in the establishment.

"After I play a few golf tournaments I'm going to spend all my time at the restaurant," Joe said. "I'm going to play at Cleveland and then at Detroit and then at Chicago in the Tab O' Shanter open, and then I'm going to run the restaurant."

MACKENZIE'S Column

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

France's political crisis—the conflict between left and right—is developing in a manner which suggests that Gen. Charles DeGaulle may be maneuvering for a position which would permit him to resume the leadership of his country at a particularly difficult time in its struggle for rehabilitation.

DeWitt Mackenzie

The general's dramatic reappearance after six months of retirement and silence makes it clear that he neither has lost interest in the struggle nor has he abandoned it. Three times within the past few days he has made important speeches, the most notable being one in which he warned that there is danger of dictatorship in France and urged that political powers—legislative, executive and judicial—be clearly separated and strongly balanced. He also advocated a strong executive and a two chamber legislature.

DeGaulle's emergence into the open again wasn't wholly unexpected. As I reported this column when I was in France ten weeks ago, while the public was puzzled by the general's resignation of the presidency in a burst of anger and his retirement to seclusion, still there were close observers who felt that he might be playing a shrewd political game and would reappear when the time seemed right.

His latest move has coincided with the election of a new president who will serve some six months while the constituent assembly frames another constitution to replace the one rejected in the recent referendum because the voters felt it leaned too far to the left.

DeGaulle's appearance once more on the speaker's platform brought him much public acclaim, but there was no indication that he expected to take a more active hand in the political show at this precise moment.

As a matter of fact there is excellent reason why the general should prefer to remain on the side lines until after the new constitution has been framed and approved by the country. Small credit and great blame can come to the government in power during the interim period, because no long term policies can be inaugurated until the revised constitution is effective—and meantime the distressed country is crying for much needed reforms.

So DeGaulle's best strategy would seem to be to work as a free agent and be prepared to offer himself for the presidency when the fourth republic is inaugurated half a year hence.

The general should be most satisfied with the election yesterday of Georges Bidault to the interim presidency. Bidault is leader of the popular Republican movement which displaced the communists as the largest party in the national assembly at the recent election. The popular Republican movement is middle-of-the-road politically and broadly speaking is a supporter of Gen De Gaulle.

The new government will, of course, again have to be a coalition if it is to last, since no party has a majority—a very unstable affair in which the Communists and Socialists, who are second and third respectively in strength, will collaborate only so long as it suits their purpose. Thus President Bidault's crown is a most uncomfortable adornment, and his task can very easily prove to be a thankless one from the standpoint of the general public which is demanding relief which it can hardly expect from such an ephemeral coalition.

Therefore if things continue along the lines which present signs indicate it is quite likely that Gen. DeGaulle, free of all official ties, will continue to cultivate his strength with the public until the next election when he will come out for the presidency.

Orchard Dusting by Plane Will Be Shown Monday

A demonstration on dusting of orchards by airplane will be held at the Deane L. Price farm, three miles northeast of Lisbon on Route 157, at 7:30 p. m. Monday.

Following the demonstration, a meeting of the Columbiana County Horticultural society will be held. Frank H. Beach, extension specialist in horticulture at Ohio State university, will speak.

MACKENZIE'S Column

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

France's political crisis—the conflict between left and right—is developing in a manner which suggests that Gen. Charles DeGaulle may be maneuvering for a position which would permit him to resume the leadership of his country at a particularly difficult time in its struggle for rehabilitation.

The general's dramatic reappearance after six months of retirement and silence makes it clear that he neither has lost interest in the struggle nor has he abandoned it. Three times within the past few days he has made important speeches, the most notable being one in which he warned that there is danger of dictatorship in France and urged that political powers—legislative, executive and judicial—be clearly separated and strongly balanced. He also advocated a strong executive and a two chamber legislature.

DeGaulle's emergence into the open again wasn't wholly unexpected. As I reported this column when I was in France ten weeks ago, while the public was puzzled by the general's resignation of the presidency in a burst of anger and his retirement to seclusion, still there were close observers who felt that he might be playing a shrewd political game and would reappear when the time seemed right.

His latest move has coincided with the election of a new president who will serve some six months while the constituent assembly frames another constitution to replace the one rejected in the recent referendum because the voters felt it leaned too far to the left.

DeGaulle's appearance once more on the speaker's platform brought him much public acclaim, but there was no indication that he expected to take a more active hand in the political show at this precise moment.

As a matter of fact there is excellent reason why the general should prefer to remain on the sidelines until after the new constitution has been framed and approved by the country. Small credit and great blame can come to the government in power during the interim period, because no long term policies can be inaugurated until the revised constitution is effective—and meantime the distressed country is crying for much needed reforms.

So DeGaulle's best strategy would seem to be to work as a free agent and be prepared to offer himself for the presidency when the fourth republic is inaugurated half a year hence.

The general should be most satisfied with the election yesterday of Georges Bidault to the interim presidency. Bidault is leader of the popular Republican movement which displaced the communists as the largest party in the national assembly at the recent election. The popular Republican movement is middle-of-the-road politically and broadly speaking is a supporter of Gen De Gaulle.

The new government will, of course, again have to be a coalition if it is to last, since no party has a majority—a very unstable affair in which the Communists and Socialists, who are second and third respectively in strength, will collaborate only so long as it suits their purpose. Thus President Bidault's crown is a most uncomfortable adornment, and his task can very easily prove to be a thankless one from the standpoint of the general public which is demanding relief which it can hardly expect from such an ephemeral coalition.

Therefore if things continue along the lines which present signs indicate it is quite likely that Gen. DeGaulle, free of all official ties, will continue to cultivate his
